

Resources Available to METRA Commuters and Columbus Employers from The Clean Air Campaign

METRA is proud to partner with The Clean Air Campaign on programs that reduce traffic congestion and air pollution, including establishing a No-Idling policy for all of our fleet vehicles. Commuters who ride METRA and the employers who support them play an important role in making Columbus a healthier community.

The Clean Air Campaign is a Georgia non-profit organization that receives funding from the Georgia DOT to support METRA commuters by offering cash incentives and prizes for choosing alternatives to driving alone, as well as access to a Guaranteed Ride Home and special recognition for helping the environment. Commuters can register online to participate in Clean Air Campaign programs at www.LogYourCommute.org.

Employers can also receive free assistance from The Clean Air Campaign to set up commute options programs for employees that save money on facilities costs, enhance employee benefits, improve worker productivity and reduce environmental impact.

All Clean Air Campaign programs and services are offered at no cost. Join the growing number of commuters and employers across the greater Columbus area who are taking action for less traffic and cleaner air.
